

Community Helpers During COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic has been a huge challenge for our communities. We have all relied on community helpers to help us keep safe and have our needs met. The jobs they do have always been essential, but COVID-19 made them more difficult to do. From health care professionals to food delivery people, find out how community workers have had to adapt to new circumstances to do their jobs during the pandemic—and why we owe them our gratitude. ### City Workers During COVID-19

by Robin Johnson

We see city workers every day. They deliver the mail, collect garbage, clean public places, and teach at school. This book shows how the COVID-19 pandemic made everyone realize just how much we rely on these workers to keep our daily lives running smoothly—and safely!

Food Workers During COVID-19

by Robin Johnson

Many of us have been able to stay home to keep safe in the COVID-19 pandemic. This book shows how this would not be possible without food workers continuing to work to farm and produce our food, deliver it by truck, sell it to us in stores, and make sure everything is clean.

Health Care Workers During COVID-19

by Robin Johnson

Doctors, nurses, and hospital cleaners, as well as workers providing home care and long-term care have continued to give us often lifesaving care during COVID-19. This book shows how health care workers have met the enormous challenges of the pandemic, at great risk to their own health.

Volunteers During COVID-19

by Robin Johnson

This book shows how people have stepped up to volunteer to do necessary work, often without pay, during the COVID-19 pandemic. Volunteers do shopping for seniors and care for the pets of people in the hospital. Businesses have switched over to making things in short supply, such as protective masks and hand sanitizer. Even children have made inspirational signs on sidewalks and in windows.

From Food Workers During COVID-19

The way workers do their jobs at the grocery store has changed a lot since the pandemic began. Workers wear masks and gloves at the stores. They carefully clean shopping carts and other surfaces. They let only a few shoppers in each store at a time.

This grocery store worker cleans shopping carts after each use.

Many grocery stores added shields to their checkout counters. The shields keep workers and shoppers safely apart.

Grocery Store Workers

Many people get most of their food at grocery stores. Grocery store workers have made sure this is still possible during the pandemic. They keep food and other supplies on the shelves. They help keep shoppers safe.
